Multiplier event in Florence

The DIDLAGO manual was distributed in electronic form (via email) to the various participants so that they can use it during their future teaching activities (and learning) of the Italian language aimed at adult citizens with a migratory background. The meetings were an opportunity to establish closer relationships with various reception centers for migrants and informal schools where Italian L2 teaching activities are carried out in order to verify, in the future, the validity of the distributed materials, their improvement according to the real student needs and possible future project developments. The courses were organized in collaboration with the teachers of the Linguaggi in Movimento cooperative and with the participation of eight students from the Italian L2 courses.

The participants showed immense interest in the Didaglo manual, engaging in lively discussions and activities that showcased its potential to revolutionize adult education in Spanish. The feedback was overwhelmingly positive, reflecting the manual's comprehensive and practical approach to language learning.

We believe that the Didaglo manual will be an invaluable asset for both educators and learners, providing effective strategies and tools to master Spanish. We are excited to announce that the manual will soon be shared with all attendees via email. This will ensure that everyone has access to this fantastic resource and can start implementing its methodologies in their teaching and learning practices.

The teacher Mrs. Angela Metallinou presented the course of the project, the important stages of its implementation and its significant results for the educational community.

In particular, she shared and comment the UNIT 3 dedicated to “GAME - FREE TIME”, where all contents and activities have been developed by the Interorthodox Centre under the title “Leisure Lingua: Exploring Language Through Games”.

Multiplier event in Cham

On 26th June more than 30 persons took part in the event for the dissemination of the second project result in the ALL IN! Project: the handbook entitled "DIDAGLO - innovative teaching modules for adult L2 learning". They were mostly teachers who have been working in integration courses, literacy courses, second language learner courses and other German courses for between 1 and up to 25 years, in order to present the newly developed teaching materials to them.

It is interesting to note that the teachers not only teach migrants, but often have a migrant background themselves (more than half of them), which makes it easier for them to put themselves in the position of young migrants in many situations. The teachers rated the learning materials as very helpful, as they are varied and utilise modern methodologies. They were eager to apply the materials in their real life classroom settings.
